Salem, Ind., Democrat.—"My rural local paper happens to tread on your toes a little in performing its mission don't get huffy and say harsh things about it, but say and take a good long breath and think back for a short time and see if you can't remember some of the favors and kindnesses it has shown you and yours in the past. Then reflect that it may not be long before you may want favors again."

Wanted.
Good, sound, well-bred, fat mules, from 4 to 8 years old, for which we will pay the highest market price. Will be found at Whitmer & Co., Stable, Oct. 4, '79. WASSON & BAUM.

STUCK COAL.—Mr. John Gibson is shelling a shaft on the land of Mr. William Fick, about half mile west of Richmond, about 100 feet. The vein is supposed to be about 2 feet 6 inches thick, which is thicker than that worked in the mines south and east of town.

Keep a quantity of corn cobs, soaked in coal oil, for fire kindlers. If dry when placed in the oil, they will absorb enough to kindle the most obstinate fire, thereby preventing a terrible amount of loss from escaping when the wood is damp or the weather cold.

WANTED—250,000 bushels of wheat, and 250,000 bushels of oats, for which I will pay the highest market price in cash.
7-40-4. GEO. L. WASSON.

Lexington Intelligence: If you wish to break your neighbor from borrowing your paper, just cut out an item here and there without letting it go. The borrower's curiosity will be so great to know what it is you cut out that they will not rest until they hunt up a copy which is entire. A few lessons of this kind will cure the most inveterate borrower, it is said.

RAILROAD SURVEY.—From Mr. Jas. Hughes we learn that a survey for a route for the Burlington & Southwestern Railroad, will be made through Richmond, the latter part of this week or the first of next. He got his information direct by letter from an officer of the road at Burlington, Iowa. The surveyors have looked over the ground and it is the opinion now that not only a practical, but a good easy route can be found through this place and out West to the bottom at Albany. If such is the case, this route will present advantages that will secure the road, for as a matter of policy the road will be built where it will pay the best, and it will pay better to run it through Richmond and the coal fields here, than it will on the routes farther north. By men who claim to know the country well, we are told that almost a direct route can be secured from here to Albany by running up one divide and down another. These calculations may be changed when the surveyors' instruments are applied, but at any rate things look quite favorable just now for the Richmond route. It should come here it would give the old town quite a boom.

Lexington Sentinel: We are to have another walking match on the 18th of this month. The distance this time will be longer than heretofore walked by our pedestrians in any former match, the distance being twenty-five miles.

ATTEMPTED RAPE.—On Sunday last William Irvin, Marshal of Orrick, brought John Stanley to this place and incarcerated him in jail for safe keeping. Stanley is charged with attempted to commit a rape on a 7 year old daughter of W. B. Parker, who lives in, near Orrick. Stanley was, it is said, under the influence of liquor at the time he committed the diabolical outrage, but if it is proven on him, this will be no excuse. The good of society demands that such offenders should receive the severest punishment.

"BLACK-DRAUGHT" cures constipation and Sick-Headache. For sale by Garner & Jacobs.

Following all shows, in fact wherever there is a big crowd, can usually be found professional pick-pockets and thieves, and to-day in Richmond will probably be no exception to the rule. We would advise every person to be on the look out and keep no more money about their persons than they absolutely need. The merchants had also better keep a sharp look out for their money drawers. While the street parade is in progress, it is a custom of many to go to the front of the store, thus leaving the rear unwatched; keep an eye on your business while you are watching the procession, and you may save some (chief the trouble of) handling your property.

Take "BLACK-DRAUGHT" and you will never be ill again. For sale by Garner & Jacobs.

Mr. Peter Dick, who was so handsome by done for, by a couple of swindlers, claiming to have a patent Hay Fork for sale, a few weeks since, out near Norton, is in receipt of information from Messrs. Sinker, Davis & Co., of Indianapolis, Ind., who are the owners of the "Fork" referred to, that the "Fork" is all right, and a good one, but that the men who traded with Mr. Dick are swindlers of the worst kind. If farmers will subscribe for, and carefully read a good county paper, they will keep posted, and will not be taken in by every swindler that comes along.

Namely, to pay sixty cents on the dollar by issuing new bonds to bear six per cent interest from date, and to run ten years.

A man died of liver complaint! One dollar's worth of "BLACK-DRAUGHT" would have saved his life. For sale by Garner & Jacobs.

Wheat in this county is coming up nicely and looks well. We can have no fields being damaged by the dry, but in some localities the grasshoppers are working into it about the edges. If we could only have a few days of cool weather to freeze out the insects, it would be better for us. The acreage sown in this county is said to be much larger than usual, and if we could only have a season to suit next year would find us with a very large surplus.

The committee of 21 decided last Monday that the time to do something had arrived. Their proceedings will be found in this issue. Read carefully what they propose to do. After action is taken on the matter by the Court, we shall have our say on the subject.

Among those who attended the St. Louis Fair last week that we did not note was Mr. S. R. Crispin and lady, who combined business with pleasure, and bought a new supply of goods, to meet the demands of increasing trade. S. R. Crispin & Co. are using printers' ink liberally, and the result is showing itself.

We received a very pleasant call from Uncle Daniel Patton, an aged minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church on yesterday. He has just returned from attending a session of the Missouri Valley Synod, which was held at Fairview church, 5 miles north of St. Joseph, Mo. He presented us with a lithographic copy of a picture of himself, taken forty years ago, in the town of Columbia, South Carolina, which we propose to have framed and hung up in our office, so that his many friends in this county can see how he looked 40 years ago. We hope he may yet live many years, a bright example for our young men to follow.

We are indebted to Mr. Willis Abbott for a copy of the Shelbyville, Indiana, Democrat.

Our colored friends are going to have a grand street parade next Monday night which will wind up a festival at the Baptist church.

St. Joseph Gazette: A St. Louis Post-Dispatch reporter lately interviewed Senator Cockrell upon the leading questions of the day. As the Senator declined to express an opinion regarding Stat politics, the result in Ohio and New York, or the Presidential question, the interviewer did not pump many interesting questions out of him. "I am opposed to being interviewed," said he and "I don't like this habit public men have of saying so much and having opinions themselves to be questioned so extensively." The Senator's ideas are sound and it would be well for those public men who are interviewed having themselves interviewed to take a few lessons from him on the subject.

Going in debt was a very common habit a few years ago. It was altogether too common among farmers. It is not so common now. Farmers have seen the evil of it. They have seen it is much easier to get into debt than it is to get out of it. It is like getting into quicksand. Every effort to get out only sinks one deeper. The cash system is far better. It makes one more economical. It is better to deprive ourselves of luxuries, than to pay too dearly for them afterwards. Pay as you go is the true philosopher's stone. It is better for the seller and better for the buyer. The seller can take less profits, as he has no bad debts. The buyer can hold a bad head, for he owes no one that he can't pay.

In Memory of the Departed. Again and again I have endeavored to forget my grief, but I have failed. I have failed to forget the world of heartaches and sorrow to join the happy band who sing the songs of redemption, around the great White Throne. At one o'clock on the beautiful evening of September 21st, while the stars were shining in all their radiant beauty, the spirit of Mrs. Mary J. Baldwin, wife of Thomas J. Baldwin, took its departure from this dreary world, to await the coming of loved ones, whom she has left behind. The deceased was born May 31st, 1845, died September 21st, 1879; aged 34 years, 4 months and 21 days; she was married October 23rd, 1871, at Elkhorn Church, in Ray County, Mo., by Rev. Richard Morton. She was baptized into the fellowship of the Christian Church at Camden, some twenty years ago. She lived a devoted member until her death. She died in the triumph of a living faith. She leaves a husband and two darling little children, a sister and brother, and many relatives to mourn her loss, but their loss is her eternal gain, and while they howl in humble submission to the will of an all-wise God, they sorrow as others who have lost a loved one. But well can they say in the language of the poet: Gentle sister, thou art now at rest, From that abode that loved thee here, Go to thy eternal home; A purer, brighter, holier sphere; The angels of that upper world Had wooed thy loving heart from this; Thou wert too pure for our dark earth, Alike for mortal's woe or bliss. 'T was hard for the loved ones to part With one who was so dear to them, But Christ has led us into their heart, And sealed it for his diadem. And then the time seemed long to thee With every lingering painful breath, Thy soul went up in ecstasy, The burden of its hope was death. At last it came—a welcome guest; Received thy strange embrace of love, And home thee to thy Savior's breast. The home prepared for thee above. Now thou hast joined that cherisher one, The first that left you earthly band; Thy ransom soul with rapture met Her welcome to the spirit land. Ye lived in love together here, She went a little while before, But now ye are together there, And shall be forever more. J. E. SIMPSON.
